Course Objectives	The essence of the course Internal Market of the European Union (EU Single Market) is to clearly differentiate the functioning of the Common Foreign Trade Policy of the EU as the basis of the customs union from the four economic freedoms: free movement of goods, services, capital and labor force as the basis of the Internal Market of the EU. Each of the four freedoms is established on a regulations deriving from the case-practice of the European Court of Justice. According the specifics of the legal acts, the legal framework on free movement of goods, services, capital and labor force is analyzed separately, and at the end the students can understand the complexity of the whole system and its carriers in the European Union.
Course Learning Outcomes	- Make clear distinction of the characteristics and the functioning of the custom union from the common market of the EU; - Understand the need for eliminating all qualitative, quantitative and other measures with equivalent effect, on the one hand, and mutual recognition of technical standards for achieving the free movement of goods in EU on the other. - Understanding the specifics of the services, the possibility to apply the principle of nondiscrimination and the need for exclusions of the general rules for promoting the integrity and particularities of the public services and achieving complete functioning of the rules of the EU Internal Market at the same time; - Understand the need to coordinate the fiscal and financial sphere as a precondition for the free movement of capital in EU; - Make difference between the free movement of labor force and free movement of physical persons within the EU Internal Market.
